Coroner Funkhouser made his annual report for the fiscal year ending April 1 to Mayor Wells yesterday. It shows that during the year the office handled 1.57 cases, an increase of 376 cases over the fiscal year preceding. Of the cases handled by the Coroner, 1.052 were men and 495 were women. In the year just closed there were 424 deaths by accidents, 125 homicides, 172 suicides and 842 miscellaneous cases. Deputy Coroner Bocgher has spent several weeks preparing the report. Besides giving these figures with exhaustive tables, showing the age, sex, nationality and manner of death, the report contains comment on pertinent questions rising out of the different investigations.

The reckless practice of carrying concealed weapons is condemned for its heavy part in the cause of the numerous homicides which have been inquired into.

past method of opening, the bids in public. The Exposition Committee on Grounds and Buildings is taking every precaution to insure the best work on the great Art Palace, which will be one of the permanent monuments of the World's Fair.

Mr. Stewart was a visitor to St. Louis just after the completion of the contract in England which nade him famous on both sides of the Atlantic.

Plans and specifications of the Art Palace are now in the hands of Mr. Stewart's specification men in Pittrhurg. The result of their calculations is awaited with interest by the Department of Works. A strong reason for desiring that the Art Building be undertaken by some one who can guarantee that the work shall be completed in time for the opening of the Exposition is the example the Exposition management has in the failure of the Pan-American Exposition to have its permanent Art Palace ready for inspection. It was not finished at the opening, and remained boarded up through the whole show.

Mr. Stewart has been engaged by the contractors for the construction of the great Yerkes system of underground railway tunnels in London, to supervise that work so as to insure them the greatest profit while complying with the rigid specifications governing that gigantic task. Several St. Louis engineers are his assistants in this construction.

Mr. Corthell is now on his way from Buenos Ayres to Germany to attend that exposition. He has been piaced in charge of the Argentine exhibits, and writes that he will ship them to St. Louis after the close of the Dusseldorf fair. ELOPED TO EAST ST. LOUIS. Father of Melvin Lefmann Op-

Pather of Meivin Letmann Opposed His Marriage.

When Melvin C, W. Lefmann of No. 425
North Fourteenth street and Emma B. Caffail of No. 4438 North Fourteenth street visited the City Hall yesterday, intending to procure a marriage license, they were told by Clerk Filley that the young man's father had preceded them and had given orders had the marriage license should not be issued to the couple, stating as his reason that the bridegroom-who-wished-to-be was under age and therefore not entitled to the much-coveted legal document.

In East St. Louis they had much better success, and when they returned to this side of the bridge they were Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Lefmann, thanks to an unsuspecting marriage license clerk and an accommodating Presbyterian minister, the Reverend Charles Evans.

They did not venture to the Lefmann home on their return, and up to a late hour last night the elder Lefmann was in absolute ignorance of his son's marriage.

"I got shead of them that time!" said Mr. Lefmann, Sr., to a Republic reporter. "I found out that they had planned to marry, and I went to the marriage license office and blocked their gams. To-morrow Fm going to telephone Chayton and other surrounding towns for fear they might try again."

"Will I get in any trouble for telling the marriage license clerk I was of age?" asked Lefmann, in reply to a query regarding his marriage. "I didn't swear to it. They can't send me to the Penitentiary, can they?"

Speaking of the elopement, young Lefman stated that he had known his wife for ten months, and that so long as he loves her and she loves him he don't care how much his father. I. F. Liefmann, is secretary of the Missouri Coffee Growers Association. The bride's father is W. W. Caffall, an employe of the City Water Department.
